

If there were ever any doubts concerning the waning interest in baseball the meeting of the magnates at Chicago during the past week must have dispelled them. The gathering was more like the meeting together of a lot of men to sing a funeral dirge than anything else. The proceedings were doleful despite the efforts of the magnates to wear smiles. Most certainly this sunual meeting was far below par in enhusiasm with those of former years.

There wasn't much done outside the routine, but the little there was done suggests many things. One fact was fully deonstrated, or rather more proof was added to the fact because the latter has been known for a long time. It was fully proven that the present League is under the control of a clique and an unscrupulous one who care as little about the integrity of the this clique have a law for magnates and auother for players which I will presently Altogether the meeting showed that in baseball we have a despotic mo-nopoly controlled by a clique of schemers regardless entirely of the principles of justice. Need we wonder then that baseball is losing favor?

The most wonderful piece of business The most wonderful piece of business done at that meeting was the unique method of disposing of the Pittsburg club's claim against the Washington club for $1,000 because of the latter team leaving the field before a game was ended. The case was so clear against Washington that the full penalty had to be imposed, but just as soon as the fine was agreed upon it was resolved to remit $750 of the $1,000. Of what earthly use are rules in the face of this?

That here of the League organ, Von der Ahe, fined Cliff Carroll in the most unreasonable way on record. The treatment of Carroll was simply outrageous. Naturally, Carroll appealed to the magnates for redress, believing that their professions of justice were at least to some extent true. His appeal was in vain, as the clique tacity indorsed the action of one of their star members. There was no sympathy for poor Cliff Carroll in the was for the magnates at Washington, and let me say that a more honest and sober player than Carroll never lived. The only conclusion that we can come to is that the action of Von der Ahe is the action authorized by the League.

I pass over the unfair treatment meted out to the Pittsburg club which is not in the clique. The unfairness was so apparent as to need no comment.

Those Cranks at Tinkering.

To be sure those persons who count notoriety by always wanting rules changed and tinkered were at the meeting. There was no millenium plan this time; it is an exploded bladder now, but there was the new diamond notion and a lew other things just as silly and just as characteristic of liquid intellects as the autopian "plan." Of course all necessary and that is to find out the cause of the decline of baseball interest before we begin to apply remedies. If we do this we'll find that the playing rules have had nothing to do with it. The revolt of the players caused the whole trouble. When they made their most unjustifiable break everything was glorious. Their reindifference and disgust among baseball patrons that have not yet died away. Curiously enough one of the prime leaders of that stupid and deplorable break was the gentleman who now assumes to pilot the "League organ." It is strange, but true.

Of course, were the Princetons and the Pennsylvania team to play, I should expect the former to be victorious; still, the fact of their being the victims of the U. of P. would show us that they are not in Valc's class. I therefore look for the Yale team to win and with something to spare.

There is no reason why they should be ignored any longer, because we can rest assured that they are quite a good lot and if they keep on improving as they have been doing, they will soon be as good as any team in the country. the country.

Affairs of the Local Teams. Matters among the local football teams have been going along very lively, and doubtless all of us who are interested in the national game as their organ cares about truth and civility. It was also proven that Three A Park yesterday week. That event unfortunately only tended to make wider a breach that was already too wide. I refer a breach that was already too wide. I refer to the strained relationship between our East End athletes and those of the city.

The contest in question was an exceedingly good one and it showed beyond all doubt that we have some good football players here. True, the teams were strengthened by outsiders, but I am free to confess that the work of the P. A. C. lot, really surprised me. Strengthened by men like fleffeifinger, Malley and Donnelly, the Three A team were a very formidable lot.

to play on his club's team, except on suffer until he has been a member a certain ance, until he has been a member a certain length of time.

But the affair is over now and it is to be hoped that an understanding will be arrived at among the parties interested whereby bitter feelings will be dispensed with and nothing but a friendly and honest rivalry exist.

A Method to Make Rowers.

A Method to Make Rowers. A day or two ago there appeared in THE DISPATCH & statement that William O'Confoundland fishermen to try and select men whom he can develop into rowers. His object is to get a four-oared crew organized to take part in the proposed contest at the world's Fair next year. This is one of the best plans that O'Connor or anybody else could adopt, and it suggests to me a few thoughts that may be of interest.

This method of going into the backwoods, as it were, to look for material to make sculiers of its not a knew one. I can remember the time when Jimmy Taylor, Harry Kells and others always had a stock of material on hand—material that they had spens months in looking for and traveled from one end of the country to the other to find. They oung and raw material was kept until it was thoroughly tested and what was good was utilized and what was not was lower class. The very fact that the magneties are trying to make the game easier and the standard of baseball by putting into one class 12 clubs, some of which should be in a lower class. The very fact that the magnetic state of the standard of the standard of the game casier and less scientific proves that somebody is not noble to keep up the pace. Their idea is to go backward toward the primitive method of the game instead of increasing its beanding of the game instead of increasing its beanding of the second-class. That is not protected in the second-class of the rates have not injured the class of the rates have not injured the public the pathe is all right instead the public the pathe is all right and only intelligent of almost cvery able writer in the country who has veniured an independent thought. This undoubtedly begets discord. We cannot be all right and only intelligent discussion will put us on the correct road if we do not allow our opinions to crystallize into creeds or judgment to be perverted by personal feelings.

There were hardly any football teams outs.

Doings of the Pugilists, I have little space left for a talk about the boxers this week and I dare say there is not need for much. The past week has been a quiet one among the fistic class. There has been nothing but talk. Oace more Mitchell has definitely declared that he will meet Corbett. It will not be a surpise if Mitchell lands in this country shortly, and just as soon as he does he will shortly, and just as soon as he does he will be prepared to meet the American cham-pion. The Britisher talks in the fatrest terms possible about Corbett and states a truth when he says "Corbett keeps up his talk about wanting to fight nobody but me for advertising purposes and to stir up feel-ings of nationality."

I wish to make a correction. Last Sunday I intimated that Frank Howson had bested Burse. I was then relying on memory only.

Burge. I was then relying on memory only, and when a friend drew my attention to the statement I found that in their 10-round contest they ited and were observed to fight another, when Burge was declared the winner. My mistake was not a great one, as the closeness of the contest shows.

Pittsburgers are interested particularly in three games of football to take place on Thursday next. One of them will be local -between the P. A. C. and Lehigh College teams. Another will be between a local team—the A. A. A.—and the Cleveland A. C. team at Cleveland, and the third will be the championship game between Yale and Princeton. The game between the P. A. C. and Lehigh at home will draw thousands of risitors, if the weather is fair and it is leveloped that there is a chance that the East End tigers will win. Of course the Lest End tigers will wil. Of course the Lestigh College team has the advantage of constant training and under ordinary conditions ought to win easily, but this year Lestigh has not played so strong a game as in past years. The team will, however, be the strongest Lestigh can muster, for they intend to win it they can. Manager Barbour, of the P. A. C., says that the intendion in making a march with Lestigh was tion in making a match with Lehigh was simply to give the Pittsburg people an op-portunity to see a good game of tootball with a crack team and not to bring the Lehigh people here for the purpose of defeat-ing them. The P. A. C.'s will be satisfied if they score and succeed in keeping the score of the Lehigh down to measurable proportions, but as Brown, Lomax and Simon Mar-tin are regular members of the team now, it is expected that a pretty good showing will be made. It is very possible that Simon Martin will not be played, since he is an old Lebigh man, and the Lebigh peo-ple may have some objection to seeing him against them. Brown and Lemax will not only play with the P. A. C. team the rest of this season but will be on the team next year. The two teams on Thursday will line up about a	s follows:	100

The game between the A. A. A. and Cleveland A. C. elevens will be hardly less interesting. Cleveland has defeated every team to which it has been opposed so far this year, including the Detroit A. C. eleven. If the A. A. A.'s team as it lined up against the P. A. C. on Columbus Day goes to Cleveland, the game will be very interesting and the result will be watched with a great deal of interest.

It seems to be accepted as a fact that

Yale will defeat Princeton on Thursday, though very little has been heard of the latter since the deleat by the Pennsylvania University eleven. There are, however, no very good grounds for expecting a large score to be rolled up by one side or the other. Princeton has been resting and practicing quietly and every effort will be made by the Tigers, and they may surprise the Yale people. The friends of Princeton have not given up the hope that their favorites may win, and they are taking the odds quietly but steadily. They were present at the Yale-Harvard game yesterday, and their belief was not shaken by what they saw there. They think that the Tigers stand a chance of holding the score down anyway, even if they do not win, and some of them prefer to place their money on the score made. Another game to be played on Thanks-giving Day is to be between the Second P. A. C. team and the Holv Ghost College team. The latter has been putting up a good game ever since it started in a couple of weeks ago, and is about the same weight as the Second P. A. C.'s. The game will take place in the morning, starting at 10 o'clock, at P. A. C. Park.

The first annual paper chase of the Keystone Bicycle Club will take place on Thursday morning, and although invitations to take part were only sent out the latter part of last week, enough replies have come to hand to show that it will be a great success. It will start at 9:30 A. M., and will be conducted on a similar plan to the old English sport of "Hare and Hounds," except that bicycles will be used instead of horses. The route will be about 15 miles in length over the streets and byways of the East End. The start will be made from the new club house of the Keystones on Howe street, near South Negley avenue. Souvenirs are to be given to all who reach the club house in return within ten minutes after the firs hare. An invitation is extended to all riders in the vicinity to join in the hunt, and those who desire to take part are requested to send in their names to either Captain Will M. Myler or Secretary J. W. McGowin

The members of the Pittsburg Amsteur Swimming Association are busily engaged in getting themselves in readiness for their first gala on Thanksgiving night. The pool that night will be prettily decorated, and it is safe to say that there will be a large attendance to witness the novel exhibition of swimming races at a time of the year when people think more of a bathtub than of a swimming race. There is a great deal of friendly rivalry between the best swimmers of the club, and Thursday night's Vincent, Oil City; E. T. W. Craig, New Brighton; O. H. Allerton, Jr., Howard E. Bidwell, A. R. Darragu, W. M. Gormley, Isaac F. Bailey, Pittsburg.

While the tennis grounds were formally losed last Saturday, a number of players could not withstand the attraction of the the stars took out their raquets and strung the nets for friendly bouts. who is the better man between the two is a hard matter. They are both entered in the four-length and 20-length handicaps. Among those who have never swam in competition, but are pretty good men, are William Schanwecker, George Baker and George Wachter. They will swim in the two four-length races. Schanwecker is also entered for the 20-length handicap. The pool is 67 feet long, making the 20 lengths slightly more than a quarter-mile race, while the four-length is 32 feet less than 100 yards.

The plunge is a novel thing in this country and is very seldom used in competition, but in England it is on the programme of every gala. B. L. Montgomery, of the local club, is quite an expert at it, but others are pushing him pretty hard. There will be quite a few youngsters in the boys' race, and they will make it pretty lively for awhile. The polo game between the teams captained by J. T. Taylor and Bert Price will wind up the entertainment. The Van Cleve and some of the other Lehigh men will probably be on the P. A. C. team next year. teams captained by J. T. McCormick, time-keepers; Prof. James Fox, judge, and Secretary S. Krouther, master of ceremonies. The handicaps will be published Thursday morning. Prof. Fox, of the Natatorium, and Prof. McEwan will give an arbibition.

The Allegheny 'Cyclers will hold a "Hard Time Smoker" on Wednesday evening, in their rooms, No. 91 Irwin avenue. It will be an enjoyable affair as are all the entertainments and parties given by the A. C.'s.
It will probably start before 8 o'clock and wind up somewhere on Thanksgiving morning, and no one knows how many hundred friends of the members will drop in for the

The election of officers of the L. A. W. for the Pennsylvania division ended on Wednesday last, and Samuel A. Boyle, of Philadelphia, was re-elected Chief Consul and J. W. Mr. Boyle is First Assistant District Attorney of Philadelphia county, and has, among other things, succeeded in having the rights of the wheelmen on the streets recognized and enforced. Since he has been Chief Consul the League membership has increased from 1,000 members to 3,500 in this State. Mr. J. W. McGowin, the Vice Consul, is one of the most progressive wheelmen in this vicinity. He is Secretary of the Keystone Bicycle Club and one of its leading members. He is also the official handi-capper for this part of the State. The list of officers and representatives elected Wednesday is as follows:

Simon Marrin may not play at center for the P. A. C.'s next Thursday, but it is hoped that he will. Ewing is one of the best of the A. A. A. blayers. He has been doing great work as marter back.

FLOY, of the A. A. A.'s, does some good work on the end and generally backs up a punt in great style. CAPTAIN AULL don't say much about the chances of deleating the Lebmbs Thursday, but he looks as if he thought a good deal. Messes McLivaine, of Altoons, and Coul-ter, of Greensburg, will probably officiate at the P. A. C.-Lehigh game next Thursday. Manager Kounts, of the A. A. A.'s, plays clean football, and those opposed to him say it is a pleasure to be lined up against him.

There will be two Ritchies in the game on Thanksgiving Day, one on the P. A. C. team and the other on the Lehigh. Next year both will be on the P. A. C. team.

Is the weather holds good there will be several excellent games after Thanksgiving Day. Some of the light-weight teams are counting on at least three or four games yet. E. E. Kenew, of the P. A. C., is getting up a very handsome souvenir programme for Thanksziving Day. It will be the shape of a football with the teams, points on the game and a picture of the team.

PRELIMINARY OPENING

KAUFMANNS NEW DRY * GOODS DEPARTMENT, TO-MORROW, MONDAY.

THE long and most unwillingly delayed opening of our new Dry Goods Department, occupying the first floor of our new building, a space of 80x140 feet (almost double the size of any other Dry Goods Department in the two cities), will take place to-morrow. According to our agreement with the contractor, the lower floors of our new addition should have been ready for occupancy on October 15, and we made all preparations accordingly.

October 15 came and found us ready-ready with the largest stock of Dry Goods and Notions ever brought to these two cities-and ready with an army of experienced salesladies and salesmen to serve the thousands of our friends and customers who even then were anxiously waiting for the opening.

But, if we were ready, THE CONTRACTOR WAS NOT. All our anticipations and calculations were set at naught by the entirely incomplete state. of the building, and the merchandise we had bought and the employes we had engaged for the occasion had to go to the back ground.

Thus over five weeks were lost-lost in costly and vexatious delays due entirely to the contractor.

Even now things are not complete, but we have concluded to wait no longer, and we will open our new DRY GOODS DEPARTMENT for business TO-MORROW and put on the finishing touches afterward. But even in its unfinished state you will find it by all odds the handsomest and largest place of its kind in the city. But this is a matter of secondary consideration. What concerns us most now is to make up for lost time. All our aims and energies will be bent to this one end. The five weeks lost must be made up by double sales during the next five weeks. We expected to sell at least $150,000 worth of Dry Goods before Christmas, AND WE EXPECT SO STILL, despite our greatly delayed opening. Yes, the goods will be sold-must be sold. That part of the early programme will undoubtedly be carried out, but, instead of the intended $150,000 (the true value of the goods) only $75,000 will wander into our cash box. The other $75,000 we sacrifice to our business judgement, which tells us that the first loss is the best, and unless we sold the goods at half-price before Christmas we would be compelled to sell them at a still greater loss later on.

Now, then, prepare for bargains which will stand without precedent or parallel in local Dry Goods annals. The great combination TIME-GAIN-ING AND MONEY-LOSING sale will commence To-Morrow morning and continue uninterruptedly until Christmas. In order to give you an idea of this rare opportunity we mention
